

Published based on Travelling With Family And Travelling Alone

Travelling With Family And Travelling Alone

A lot of people go on a holiday once or twice a year or even more. Some go on holiday with their friends and some go with their family. Either its a luxury cruises holidays or bag packing around Europe holiday is a holiday. There are others who enjoy going on holiday by themselves.

I like to enjoy things in my own time and I wont have too many responsibilities travelling alone than travelling with my family. When travelling with family you cannot have a travel free journey because you have some regulations when you are with family. There are certain things you wont be able to do because of this restriction but when you are single you are free with no responsibilities to do what you want to on a holiday. This doesnt mean anything illegal or something stupid.

What I mean by free is you dont have to worry about booking a hotel if you are bag packing, you can easily camp out or live in a hotel. If you go with your family then you will have to plan everything before hand so that it doesnt become a disaster holiday. 15 months ago I went on silversea cruises to the Caribbean, I didnt plan my stay I just camped out with my fellow travellers and the locals. It was a great experience.

Before I settle down with my girlfriend, my plan is to go on a trip to South East Asia. I want to do this on my own as well because this also gives me an opportunity to see how people are living in poor condition and learn different cultures of the World. I also plan to do some volunteer work for Childrens charities in Nepal and India. After the hard work I will be heading on royal Caribbean cruises and rest for few months in the lovely Bahamas.

You can also find this article published on Travelling With Family And Travelling Alone, and on the tag pages childrens charities, cruises to the caribbean, holiday, royal caribbean cruises, Travelling, work.