Twin Towers in Kuala Lumpur

Petronas skyscrapers (also known as the Petronas Towers or Twin Towers entirely), Kuala Lumpur, Malaysia was the worlds tallest buildings from 1998 to 2004, when their elevation exceeds the Taipei 101 towers are the tallest buildings in the world twins.

The Petronas Twin Towers were the tallest buildings in the world until Taipei 101 was completed in 2004, measured at the beginning of their structural components (arrows, but not antennas). Needles are considered part of the architectural plan of buildings, in which changes would substantially change the appear and conception of the construction, whereas antennas may be added or distant without consequences. The Petronas Twin Towers stay on the tallest buildings in the world twice.

The towers are SkyBridge between the two towers of 41 and floor 42, which is the highest bridge in two stages in the world. It is committed to the master construction, but is designed to slide in and out of the towers to prevent breakage during high winds. The span is 170 m (558 ft) higher up land and 58 m (190 ft) long, weighs 750 tonnes. The same plant is as well known as the podium, since visitors who regard to pass at higher levels to alter elevators here. The SkyBridge is assailable to all visitors, merely free passes (limited to 1,700 people per day) should be obtained on a first come, 1st served. Hits are along the ground 41 on the 42nd base can be exploited away tenants of the construction.

The Petronas Towers were a setting for some scenes in the 1999 film Entrapment starring Sean Connery and Catherine Zeta-Jones. It ends with a spectacular continuation of the two stars Pasukan Gerakan Khas, which eventually led to the capture of drain Connery and Catherine Zeta-Jones.
